Double Gold Winners at the E-Learning Awards

Breaking News - Double Gold for Nelson Croom at the E-Learning Awards 2010

We're proud to announce that we won two gold awards at the E-Learning awards 2010 last night. Following on from last year's silver for 'E-Learning Development Company of the Year' this year Nelson Croom were awarded the gold in this category and that of 'Excellence in the production of Learning Content - Not for Profit Sector'

"The competition was fierce and the standards very high, so we are absolutely delighted to have won these awards. We put learners at the heart of all of our work, and have developed our technology, our processes and our content to ensure that we meet the needs of adult learners in a personalised and flexible way. The team work hard to ensure that our clients and partners, and their learners, receive the very best service and solutions. It's wonderful to have this recognised in these industry awards" comments Alan Nelson, Managing Director of Nelson Croom.

We want to thank all our clients and partners for the support and feedback that you've given, through questionnaires, testimonials, and anecdotally. It helps us continually re-evaluate, tweak, and improve the services we offer...and win awards like these. We couldn't have done it without you.
